"RED PIKE" EN ROUTE

Goes to the Coast to Purchase a Horse.

HIS VIEWS ON LOCAL RACING

Says That Carter Harrison Has Regained His Lost
Form.

"Red Pike" O'Brien went away on the Alameda.

There is not a turf man in the Islands who does not know "Pike," as every one calls him, and he is known on the Mainland race tracks just as well as he is here.

He has worked around horses all his life, runners and trotters, but his affections run to the former. As a rule his connection with the sport of kings has been in the capacity of "rubber," but now and again, when things came his way, he has blossomed out as an owner. In the matter of caring for and conditioning a horse he has few equals.

"Pike" came to the Islands a year or so ago with a shipment of horses for George McKenzie, of Hilo. Since then he has been a prominent figure in the paddock and around the stables wherever a race meet has been held. He said yesterday that he was going direct to the Rancho del Paso, at Sacramento, to procure a horse for the coming June meeting.

"It's easy money," said he to an Advertiser reporter; "dead easy money. Why, I can go over there at the back end of the Frisco season and pick up a plug for a song, which the owner don't want to pack over the mountains. I won't give no $500 for him either, and I'll guarantee that he'll make the mutts running down here look silly."

"Pike" came down from Hilo after the recent meeting. He trained Carter H. Harrison Jr. for his race with Weller. He says that Weller won the mile simply because he was the best horse. Carter Harrison, he said, was better than ever before in his life, but the distance was too far for him. "He made the old horse hustle, just the same," said "Pike," "and fit and well can undoubtedly beat anything here at six furlongs. In the three-quarters of a mile handicap on the second day, it was a sin to start him. He ran such a hard race the previous day that he was in no shape to go, and I told his owners so. They knew it all, however, and not only started Harrison, but bet heavily on him. They lost their money, and deserved to do so. Say! Youse racing men down here are a lot of peaches."

The rubber further said that Messrs. Clay and O'Rourke were so surprised at Harrison's defeat in the second race that they accused him of having "doped" their horse.

"Pike" thinks that Del Vista is one of the best middle distance horses in the Islands. Royal Pan, he says, has gone to pieces, and is no account whatever. According to him, Socialist is going to be shipped to the Coast shortly. His visit to Hawaii has been anything but profitable to his owner, who is said to have bet heavily upon him at Hilo. A little over a year ago, after running a mile in 1:30, Socialist could not have been purchased for $1,500. Geo. McKenzie refused this amount for him. "Socialist," remarked "Pike," "is an inconsistent beast which can't pack weight. Look up the 'dope,' and you'll find that whenever he has had more than 105 pounds on his back he has run well, but that with from 110 to 115 pounds up, he has failed to get any of the money. The package of 121 pounds which he was asked to carry at Hilo was too much for him."

THE HOLD-UP SCARE BOOMS THE TRADE IN FIREARMS

SINCE the burglars and hold-ups have begun to infest the city, revolvers are becoming more plentiful in the hip pockets of citizens whose business or pleasure compels them to be upon the streets after dark. All the business houses which make a specialty of selling firearms tell of an increased sale in revolvers, usually of the medium-sized pattern, which can be easily thrust into the side pockets of coats or into hip pockets without attracting notice.

That the citizens of Honolulu have come to a hearty realization of the danger which threatens them on streets after dark, where there is little traffic, is clearly indicated in the sales books of the gun stores. Since Christmas there have been more sales of revolvers and small arms in general than at any other period during the year. It was about a month ago when the stories of burglars, hold-ups, petty thieves and other midnight marauders began to go the rounds and the last week has brought to light a harvest of reports of the light-fingered gentry plying their evil trade in various parts of the city. Since then the pistol trade has boomed.

One gun seller states that a gentleman of a practical turn of mind invested in an arsenal of three small revolvers before Christmas, giving the explanation that he believed in making presents to his friends that were of practical value. It followed that three of his friends were each the recipients of a revolver at his hands.

Yesterday a bank clerk who was visited the night before by a burglar who carried away a part of his wardrobe, bought a revolver, and was surprised when he found three other young men making similar purchases. One of them was a young attorney who, a few nights ago, received hard usage from a person whom he asserts was a burglar. The sellers of firearms say that men who live at some distance from the center of the city are generally investing in seven-shooters.

There are police regulations which provide that any person not authorized by law, who shall carry, or be found armed with any bowie-knife, sword-cane, pistol, air-gun, slung-shot, or other deadly weapon, shall be liable to a fine. Most cities have such a police regulation, but when their streets are infested with highwaymen and thieves, the police are not active in finding who has a gun on his person and who has not. A citizen of reputable standing in any community is not adjudged to be morally violating such laws when he is merely providing himself with the means of warding off assailants whom the police would be glad to place under lock and key if they could, but lay their hands upon them. The fact remains, however, that about every fourth male resident of the city is carrying a revolver at the present time, and the chances are that the hold-ups will meet with warm receptions from now on. Incidentally some of the more excitable young bloods may shoot each other.
